May 11, 2006 (Boca Raton, FL) — Multi-Media Productions (USA), Incorporated announces the appearance of MedOp Inc. on Health Journal Television hosted by General Alexander Haig.

Approximately 10 million Americans suffer from early signs of Age-Related Macular degeneration or AMD. Almost half a million have late-stage AMD. In this segment of Health Journal Television, MedOp Inc. will discuss how MaxiVision, from MedOp Inc. offers benefits of the nutritional supplement lutein, that may offer great promise in the treatment of AMD.

Dr. Rodney O. Horton, President and CEO, MedOp Inc. explained, "There's nothing more satisfying than preventing a person from needlessly going blind."

Coordinating producer Megan Vieira added, "When researching the latest developments in the prevention of macular degeneration, MedOp Inc. consistently came up as being in touch with the most current advancements in this area. They were a natural to appear on this edition of Health Journal Television."
